

Our 7 Favorite Places to Find Deals and Discounts on Cycling Gear! Complements of CompleteTri.

REI Garage Cycling Area

REI is a well-known distributor of tri and cycling gear, but the real deals can be found at their clearance site, REI Garage. If there was just one place we could make a point to check weekly, this would be it. What is on sale constantly changes and available sizes can vary, but deals of 230% to 50% off are common. We find the REI Garage to be an excellent place, in particular, to find great apparel from quality brands like Pearl Izumi and Garneau. Find it quickly by using our link.

Performance Bike Outlet Section

Performance Bike has a great outlet store, which we particularly like for bike components and wheels. Timing is everything, but it is common to find higher-end Zipp or Mavic wheels at 50% off or more. In addition, they typically have a nice selection of discount cranksets, if you are looking to do some component upgrades or need a replacement. Find the Performance Bike Outlet here.

Jenson Gear Clearance Area

Jenson USA has a Sale section, but then within that they have a Gear Clearance section which is where the real deals can be found. It reminds us of some of the now-defunct deep-discount cycling gear sites, where quality clearance bike gear can be had while it lasts. Take a peek each week or so, as the stock is always changing. Find it here.

Sierra Trading Post Deals Area

Sierra Trading Post is a discount outdoor gear site who sells a lot more than just workout gear, but we find them to offer good deals on some cycling gear. The deals can be quite substantial -- 50% to 70% off or more. Like others, timing is everything so you need to check-in often, . Since they sell so many different things, you have to dig a bit to find the cycling closeouts, but we will make it easier for you.... Just follow this link and you will be right there.

Amazon Private Sellers, Special Discounts

Many Amazon products are sold by sellers who are highly motivated to get honest reviews on their products. If you have your eye on a cycling product sold through an Amazon retailer, consider reaching out and asking for a deep discount in return for your honest review. You might be surprised how many take you up on it.

Chain Reaction Cycling Clearance Bin

Chain Reaction Cycling has been online since about 2000, and they have a clearance bin that, at times, can have some real bargains. We expect to see 20% to 40% off key gear, and we find it to be a go-to source for discounted bike shoes and mountain bike gear. You can get straight to their clearance bin here.

Local Cycling Clubs

Finally, joining a local cycling club can have many training and fellowship benefits, but one underappreciated benefit is the discounts provided by local tri shops, bike shops, and health clubs for bike club members. Consider joining, and you may be surprised by your access to excellent deals on high quality gear, many of which are standing discounts that can be taken at any time. Most cities and universities have at least one good cycling club to choose from.

Are we missing anyone? If so, drop us a line and we will consider them for inclusion. We would love to hear your secret spots for finding great cycling-related deals!